

CURRICULUM VITAE

ANDREAS BØJE FORSBY

Researcher, PhD

Danish Institute for International Studies (DIIS)

Østbanegade 117, 2100 Copenhagen, Denmark

Phone: (+45) 61 777 111 or (+45) 3269 8960

E-mail: afo@diis.dk

Academic career:

- | | |
|-------------|--|
| 2016 – | Researcher, PhD, Danish Institute for International Studies |
| 2012 – 2015 | PhD candidate, Danish Institute for International Studies and University of Copenhagen |
| 2010 – 2011 | Research assistant, Danish Institute for International Studies |
| 2013, 2017 | External lecturer, Department of Political Science, University of Copenhagen |

Main fields of expertise:

- East Asian security
- Chinese foreign and security policy
 - US-China relations
- US foreign and security policy in Asia
- The South China Sea, the East China Sea and UNCLOS
 - The Korean Peninsula
 - ASEAN and BRICS
- Military power and weapons technology
 - Danish-Chinese relations
 - International Relations theory

Recent academic publications

- Forsby AB (forthcoming, 2017), “Denmark’s relationship with China: An odd couple’s quest for bilateral harmony”, in Lanteigne Marc (ed.), China and Nordic Diplomacy, London: Routledge.
- Forsby AB (2017), “A New Strategic Balance? US-China Relations under Trump”, DIIS Report, no. 2017/07, Copenhagen, Danish Institute for International Studies.
- Forsby, AB (2016), “The Logic of Social Identity: China’s Identity and Grand Strategy in the 21st Century”, PhD dissertation, monograph, University of Copenhagen, 648 sider.
- Forsby, AB (2016), “The South China Sea: A Breeding Ground for Geopolitical Rivalry?”, DIIS-report, no. 6, Copenhagen: Danish Institute for International Studies.