

2014 NEW CHALLENGES FOR BOTH NATO & AFGHANISTAN

In an age of austerity the inconvenient wedlock of Afghanistan and NATO ventures into the unknown. As the Taliban hibernates, awaiting both political and military momentum, NATO seems caught between ambitions and austerity. How will Afghanistan look post-2014? And has the Afghan experience initiated a political transformation of NATO?

Youth Atlantic Treaty Association Denmark (YATA) and the Danish Atlantic Treaty Association (DATA) would like to invite colleagues, students and politicians to an insightful panel debate about NATO and Afghanistan in an age of austerity.

The panel debate will take place March 22th, 2013 at Svanemøllen Kaserne (building 118), Ryvangs Allé 1, 2100 København Ø, 15.00 – 16.30.

DATA will host a small reception following the panel debate. The seminar will be held in English.

Words of Welcome:

- Troels Frøling, Vice President Atlantic Treaty Association, Secretary General Danish Atlantic Treaty Association.
- Mathias Müller, President YATA Denmark.

The following speakers will attend the panel:

- Hugh Bayley, President of NATO Parliamentary Assembly
- Ole Kværnø, Director for Institute for Strategy at the Royal Danish Defence College
- John Dyrby Paulsen (MP, Social Democratic Party), Chairperson, Sub-Committee on Transatlantic Relations (PCTR)

Registration is required and must be addressed to atlant@atlant.dk no later than March 20th, 2013.

Because of construction work near the site, you should expect additional transportation time if you should arrive by car.
