

Deputy Secretary of State James B. Steinberg

Does Europe matter to the US or has the focus shifted to Asia? What role does the US play in European security? Will the financial crisis turn China into a superpower, and what will the US do about it? And what are the prospects in Afghanistan?

Join us when Deputy Secretary of State James B. Steinberg visits the University of Copenhagen to talk about U.S. foreign policy and debate with the audience. James B. Steinberg is the principal Deputy to Secretary of State Hillary Clinton.

James B. Steinberg's biography.

Welcome: Rector Ralf Hemmingsen, University of Copenhagen and U.S. Ambassador to Denmark Laurie S. Fulton

Moderator: Professor Russell Duncan, Department of English, Germanic and Romance Studies, University of Copenhagen

- Time: Wednesday 26 May at 15-16.30
- Place: University of Copenhagen, the Ceremonial Hall (enter from Frue Plads)

The event is open to the public. Registration is necessary