Emne: Invitation of member of Parliament to Lithuania

Dear Sir/ Madame,

I am Rugilė Andziukevičiūtė, from an FDI promoting agency "Invest Lithuania". "Invest Lithuania" is an agency under the ministry of Economy of Invest Lithuania. Together with Prime Minister's Office, we are organising the Investment Advisory Council (IAC) meeting, which will be held on November 7th, 2013 in Vilnius. The Investment Advisory Council, established by the Lithuanian Government in 2009, provides advice to the Government, Ministries and other state institutions on investment policy. Chaired by the Minister of Economy, the Council's membership includes top managers from leading international businesses with a demonstrated interest in Lithuania's development as a preferred destination for investment in the Baltic Sea region.

At the meeting we plan to discuss labour market regulation: how to balance flexibility and security in labour market regulation; what are the challenges and opportunities for a small economy faced with a highly global labour force; and, finally, how to address the shortage of certain specialist skills and the supply of the skills more effectively.

Speakers and participants at this event include the Prime Minister, the Minister of Education, the Minister of Economy, representatives of the Ministry of Social Affairs and Labour, Members of Parliament, Managing Directors of foreign companies that have a presence Lithuania, representatives of recruitment companies, academics and others.

We would be honoured to invite a member of Danish Parliament to speak about the context how the flexicurity policies were implemented in Denmark, what were the main driving forces to amend the labour laws in more flexible manner and what were the main fears from the opposition, and are employees and employers satisfied with the current regulation.

I would like to kindly ask you to help to identify the member of Parliament who is interested in flexicurity policies. We would then send official invitation, signed by our member of Parliament. Flights and accommodation will be booked by Invest Lithuania.

I would be happy to provide you with more information over the phone or by e-mail.

Thank you for your kind agreement to help.

Kind regards,

Rugilė Andziukevičiūtė
