Today, SMEs account for 99% of enterprise in Europe and have been identified as key drivers in achieving the growth and development needed for economic recovery. Entrepreneurs are the driving force behind these businesses and are, therefore, vital to this process. To strengthen this area, last year the EU launched its Entrepreneurship 2020 Action Plan to promote entrepreneurship in the EU28.

Specific groups such as women, young people and migrants must be actively supported in their journey through entrepreneurship; support mechanisms, pan-European projects and networks are important ways to realise their enormous potential.

This special international symposium seeks to analyse current entrepreneurship practices and explore how to boost entrepreneurial spirit to help shape a more sustainable, inclusive and fairer labour market in Europe.
