Emne: Subject: Boycott PyeongChang 2018 Winter Olympics

I am extremely distressed about the torture and consumption of animal companions in South Korea. Even though the government has established an Animal Protection Law, dogs are still electrocuted, hanged, and beaten to death by farmers and slaughters. Also, dogs and cats are still being tortured and boiled alive for so-called elixirs, which have no medicinal properties except in the minds of gullible customers. Until South Korea ends this appalling suffering, the country's reputation in the international community will continue to suffer. Its citizens will face shame and embarrassment. And South Korea will continue to be regarded as "third world," despite its glittering modernization and attempts at globalized thinking. There will be worldwide attempts to boycott PyeongChang 2018 Winter Olympics unless the abuse of cats and dogs has finally come to an end.

Kind regards
