

CV André François Giroux

André François Giroux (LLB [Civil Law], Université de Montréal, 1992; LL.M. [International Business Law], McGill University, 1994; LL.M. [European Community Law], College of Europe, 1995; MBA, Université de Montréal, 2001) joined the Department of Foreign Affairs and International Trade in 1995. He served abroad at the Permanent Mission of Canada to the United Nations in New York from 1996 to 1999, in part during Canada's term on the Security Council, and as counsellor at the Embassy of Canada to France from 2004 to 2008. In Canada, he has had assignments in the International Trade Law Bureau and in the International Economic Relations and Summits Division. From 2008 to 2010, he was director of the Non-Proliferation and Disarmament Division. Most recently, Mr. Giroux served as director of the Office of the Deputy Minister of Foreign Affairs. He is married to Nathalie Byk, and they have three daughters.