A. CEDAW reporting process

1. Has your Parliament been involved in the preparation of your country's report which will be examined by the United Nations Committee on Elimination of Discrimination against Women at its 60th session? If yes, please explain how.

No

2. Was your country's report presented to and discussed in Parliament before being submitted to the UN Committee? If yes, please explain.

No

3. Will members of parliament be included in your country's delegation to the 60th session of the United Nations Committee on Elimination of Discrimination against Women?

It is not anticipated that MPs will participate in the examination.

4. Are there any mechanisms in place to ensure parliamentary follow up to the concluding comments of the Committee on your country's report? If yes, please explain.

No

B. Women in Politics

Special temporary measures

5. What special measures, if any, have been implemented to increase the number of women in parliament?

- Quota for women enacted by parliament. If yes, please provide details.
- Reserved seats for women in parliament, If yes, please provide details
- Quota for women adopted voluntarily by political parties. If yes, please provide details.

There are no special measures adopted by the parliament regarding quotas or reserved seats for woman. Internal guidelines for equal representation are known from several political parties; however the administration is not involved in the setting or development of such guidelines.

6. Please list mechanisms other than quotas used to encourage women's participation in your country's latest elections, including measures such as sensitization campaigns, training and mentoring programs.
