

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Children playing in front of their damaged house in Cizre. Lazar Simeonov, RT

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Traces of ISIS in Districts Cizre (Turkey-Kurdistan)

Papers sealed by ISIS were found in a house that state forces used as a military quarter during their curfew attacks Cizre.

Papers sealed by ISIS were found in a house that state forces used as a military quarter during their curfew attacks Cizre. Currencies from several Arab countries were found in the district previously, and witnesses had stated that many participants of the curfew attacks were speaking in Arabic and Azeri.

M.E.Z., a former Ahrar Al-Sham administrator, had also claimed that nearly 750 jihadist gangs were brought to Turkey in order to fight in Northern Kurdistan. The AKP government failed to make a statement on this information.

PAPERS SEALED BY ISIS FOUND IN A HOUSE

Papers sealed by ISIS were found in a house that state forces used during their curfew attacks in the Cudi neighborhood of Cizre. State forces were asked to read the prayer on these papers 52 times a day, and the prayer ends with the phrase 'We will bring true Islam to these lands.' Two ISIS seals can be found at the bottom of this hand-written document, and these papers support the claims that the Turkish state used jihadist gangs brought from Syria in its attacks in North Kurdistan.

CURRENCIES FROM 4 COUNTRIES HAD ALSO BEEN FOUND

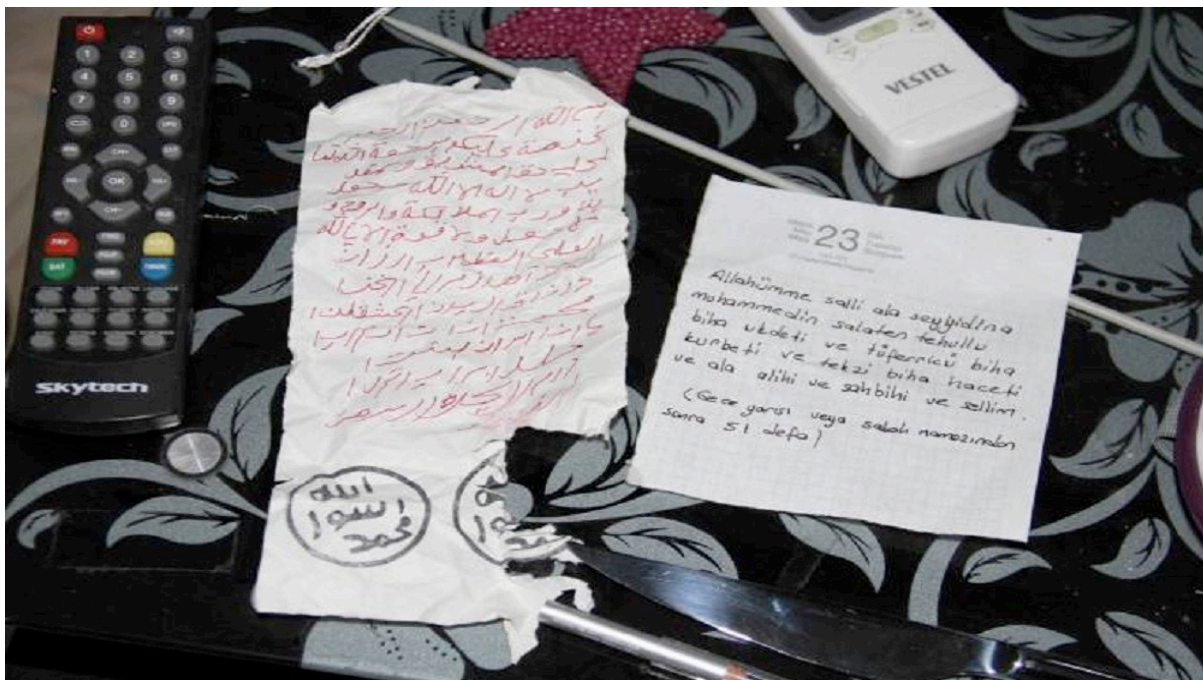

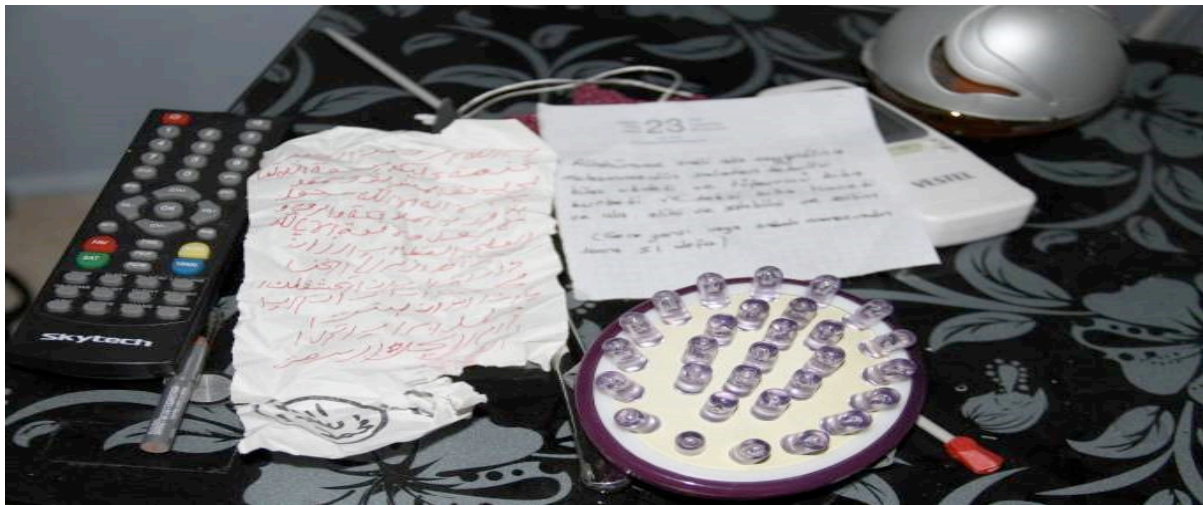

Currencies from 4 countries including Saudi Arabia had also been found in the houses that state forces used as military quarters during their genocidal attacks in Cizre that lasted 79 days.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

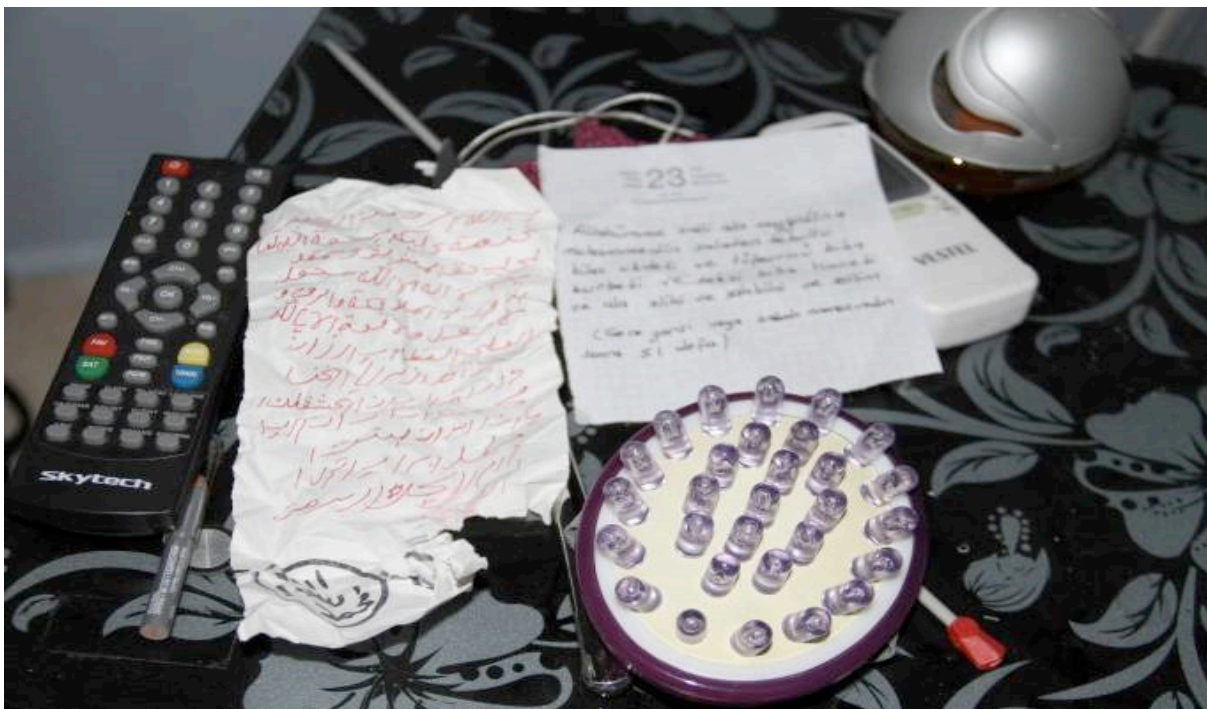

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.

Turkey is Fighting a Dirty War Against KURDS

This is not Syria, nor is it Iraq. It is Turkey, America's NATO partner, now in the throes of a rapidly expanding war against its Kurdish population in the country's southeast.

Hundreds of civilians were killed. Human rights groups say government forces have carried out massacres of civilians and extrajudicial killings.

Images by ANF show the marks of the terror and massacre committed by Turkish state's 'security forces' in Cizre where some 200 people were savagely massacred as an end to the state of siege that remained in effect for some three months.