

Jeremy Browne – Biography

Special Representative for the City to the European Union

Jeremy held the position of:

- Minister of State in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (2010-12)
- Minister of State in the Home Office (2012-13)
- Member of Parliament (2005-15)

Special Representative for the City to the European Union

Jeremy is the Special Representative for the City to the European Union. His role is to represent the UK based financial and professional services sectors at the highest levels in Brussels and in EU Member States, with policy makers, regulators, central bankers, MEPs, Commissioners and officials, national governments and other key opinion formers.

Political Career

Jeremy was previously a member of the British Government. He was Minister of State in the Foreign and Commonwealth Office (with responsibility for British relations with Asia and Latin America) and in the Home Office (with responsibility for Crime Prevention). He was the Member of Parliament for Taunton (2005-2015).

Education

The son of a diplomat, Jeremy was born in London and grew up in a number of countries including Belgium, Iran and Zimbabwe. He attended Nottingham University where he was President of the Student's Union. He is now an international advisor and Honorary Professor of International Relations at the University.

Personal Life

Jeremy lives with his partner Rachel and their daughter Molly in London. His interests include supporting Queens Park Rangers, American politics and twentieth century art.