

Yang Jiang

Senior Researcher

Danish Institute for International Studies (DIIS)

Østbanegade 117, 2100 Copenhagen, Denmark

Email: yaji@diis.dk Mobile: 91325560

Yang Jiang is Senior Researcher at the Danish Institute for International Studies. She does research on the contemporary political economy of China, including domestic politics of economic reform, policymaking of foreign economic policy, economic diplomacy, aid and outward investment. Her current research projects include China's overseas investment in infrastructure, the role of Chinese actors in conflict zones, and China's role in global economic governance.

Academic publications

- China's Policymaking for Regional Economic Cooperation. Global Political Economy Series. Basingstoke: Palgrave Macmillan, forthcoming 2013.
- "China's Trade Policymaking: Domestic Interests and Post-WTO Contestations", in The Ashgate Research Companion to International Trade Policy, edited by Ken Heydon and Stephen Woolcock, 503-20. Farnham: Ashgate, 2012.
- "Rethinking the Beijing Consensus: How China Responds to Crises", The Pacific Review, 24, 3, July (2011): 337-56.
- "'Great Power Style' in China's Economic Diplomacy: Filling the Shoes of a Benign Hegemon?", The Hague Journal of Diplomacy, 6, 1-2, (2011): 1-19.
- "China's Pursuit for FTAs: Is China Exceptional", Review of International Political Economy 17, 2 (2010): 238-61.

Academic career

- PhD: (Completed; March 2005 – May 2008): Department of International Relations, the Australian National University
- Visiting Fellow, China Academy of Social Sciences, February to June 2006.
- Visiting Fellow, Beijing University, February to June 2006, and April to May 2007.
- Associate Professor in Chinese Business and Politics (November 2011 – September 2013), Asia Research Centre, Department of International Economics and Management, Copenhagen Business School (CBS).
- Member of the Editorial Board, International Journal of Diplomacy and Economy, Inderscience Publishers, October 2011 - present