Egypt Parliament Abroad statement on Human Rights Day

Human Rights Day comes amidst deteriorating human rights situation in Egypt, where there are more than 60 thousand detainees, 3000 death sentences of political opponents and criminal acts against hundreds of children women and youth who face slow death in military coup prisons as well as depriving them from the right to follow up with their school and university study. Egypt today is on the brink of collapse on the hands of military rule and it loses all its potentials while the people lose their rights, freedom and dignity.

On the Human Rights Day the world must stand united against the violations of the military coup of Egyptians, and we will raise our voice high to confront the heinous military regime's takeover of Rights and freedom of Egyptians.
