INNOVATIVE AND BLOCKCHAIN PLATFORMS FOR FUNDING 2030 AGENDA

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

The 2030 Agenda structured around 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) and 169 targets envisages a world that is free of poverty, hunger, preventable diseases; a world that ensures universal and equitable access to healthcare, education and social protection; a world that respects human rights and ensures environmental sustainability.

However, implementation of the inspirational development agenda is challenged by a critical financial gap estimated at 2.5 Trillion USD per year. UN member states, public, private and civil society partners are faced with a main question – how to close the financial gap of 37 Trillion USD until 2030? The 2018 Report of the Inter-agency Task Force on Financing for Development indicates that the official development assistance (ODA) among 30 members of the OECD Development Assistance Committee (DAC) remains at 0.31% GNI as of 2017 - far short of the United Nations target of 0.7% GNI. Only 5 DAC countries have actually reached or exceeded the 0.7% ODA target, including Denmark, Luxemburg, Norway, Sweden and the United Kingdom.

In this context Innovative Financing emerges as a mechanism that can play a transformational role in funding 2030 agenda alongside the domestic financial flows, foreign direct investments and official development assistance. Innovative Financing is a unique, politically neutral funding instrument for human development. We have excellent examples from UNITAID, Product (Red) and solidarity funds of different countries, that innovative financing can save millions of lives and reduce suffering from poverty or emergencies.

Innovative Financing is equally important for low, middle or high income countries either to address local development priorities or to support global actions for climate change or humanitarian crisis.

In fact, the broad international consensus on the potential of innovative financing has been already achieved and reflected in the outcome documents of four major international financing conferences. Starting from 2002 Monterrey Consensus to 2008 Doha Declaration, 2015 Addis-Ababa Agenda for Action and most recent conclusions and recommendations of ECOSOC 2018, the global policy makers agree that Innovative Financing can serve as an important catalyst of development funding. The 2018 World Assembly Statement of the Global Taskforce of Local and Regional Governments further calls for increased efforts to analyze and report on innovative initiatives and to establish national and international funding mechanisms that promote achievement of development goals.

At the same time we witness and welcome expanding dialogue and initiatives of innovative financing in both public and private sectors. Indeed, tax levies, voluntary solidarity contributions, national solidarity programmes, thematic bonds, social impact investments and blended finance are the diverse approaches to funding development efforts through innovative solutions.

While speaking about the potential of innovative financing, Dalberg estimates that from 2001-2013 innovative financial solutions have mobilized over 100 Billion USD. Impressive, but not sufficient. How can we move to “Billions to Trillions” agenda?

Finally, while the Leading Group has been focusing on the predictable platforms of innovative financing – a new ecosystem of Distributed Ledger Technologies (DLT) or Blockchains have emerged. Cryptocurrencies and blockchains, may become major game-changers in funding SDGs as innovative solutions, if the international community reaches an agreement on the risks vs. benefits of DLT.

It is increasingly clear that Innovative Financing is the future of funding sustainable development, especially in the modern era of globalized economy with ever-expanding capacities of digital market and distributed ledger technologies.

B. LEADING GROUP ON INNOVATIVE FINANCING FOR DEVELOPMENT

Formally known as the Leading Group on Solidarity Levies to Fund Development, the Leading Group on Innovative Financing for Development was established in 2006 as a global platform of member states, international organizations and civil society.

C. GEORGIA'S PRESIDENCY OF THE LEADING GROUP

Georgia was honored to become the President of the Leading Group for 2017-2018 and to join the first global champions and over 150 distinguished members of the innovative financing movement.

The foundation of Georgia's Presidency of the Leading Group was built in 2014, when the Solidarity Fund of Georgia – the largest integrated platform of innovative financing – was established under the Prime Minister's Initiative. Georgia joined the Paris-based secretariat in 2015 and the same year, in partnership with the Leading Group, UN Resident Coordinator's Office in Georgia, Tbilisi City Municipality, Ministry of Culture & Monument Protection and the National Business Association hosted the first international forum dedicated to the innovative financing for post-2015 Agenda.

The 2015 Tbilisi International Solidarity and Innovative Financing Forum (TISIFF 2015) brought together over 120 delegates from national, regional and global organizations supporting or implementing innovative funding solutions for poverty eradication, nutrition, health and climate change. TISIFF was the first attempt to consolidate the existing global knowledge in solidarity and innovative financing vis-à-vis 2030 SDG agenda. The meeting discussed experience of global initiatives (UNITAID, UNITLIFE, GAVI, Stamp out Poverty and SUNREF) and national solidarity funds and programmes from France, Georgia, Mali and Tunisia.

More importantly, TISIFF 2015 generated an outcome document 'TISIFF Recommendations' that offers a new vision and a common roadmap how to galvanize innovative financing for Sustainable Development Goals (see Table 1).

In September 2016 and September 2017 Georgia and France co-hosted high level side-events on the margins of the United Nations General Assembly sessions, reflecting on TISIFF 2015 discussions and opportunities for expanding partnerships around innovative financing.

In April 2018, Georgia, as the President country of the Leading Group was actively involved in the ECOSOC 2018 Financing for Development Forum co-facilitated by the Permanent Mission of Jamaica and Portugal to the United Nations. Georgia's engagement led to inclusion of innovative financing in the final conclusions and recommendations of ECOSOC Forum, thereby positioning the topic on a high level political agenda similar to the Monterrey Consensus, Doha Declaration and Addis-Ababa Agenda for Action.

France, as the Permanent Secretariat of the Leading Group and Georgia, as the President country used the opportunity of the ECOSOC 2018 to organize a side-event on "Innovative financing vis-à-vis climate change". This was the first side-event co-hosted in partnership with Germany, one of the most active member countries of the Leading Group.

Finally, in September 2018 on the margins of the 73rd United Nations General Assembly Session in New York, Georgia in partnership with France and Germany convened a side-event on "Cryptocurrencies & Blockchains: A New Boost for SDG Financing?" The side event joined by government, private sector, academia and civil society representatives discussed the opportunities vs. risks of DLT technologies in mobilizing additional innovative financing for development.

In order to further facilitate the global dialogue on innovative financing for 2030 agenda, Georgia as the President country of the Leading Group hosts the second Tbilisi International Solidarity and Innovative Financing Forum (TISIFF 2018) on December 14-16, 2018 in its Capital.

Highlights of TISIFF 2015 Recommendations

'TISIFF 2015 Recommendations' - the outcome document of the first Tbilisi International Solidarity and Innovative Financing Forum offers a roadmap for global, regional and national how to galvanize Innovative Financing for 2030 Agenda.

Specifically the document offer 'Categorization' of potential platforms and sources of innovative financing at different levels. The report identifies 9 potential platforms at global and regional levels and 14 platforms at national and sub-national levels that could generate more innovative resources from tourism, shipping, banking, culture, sports or other industries. While dialogue on innovative financing has been largely dominated around successful examples from global initiatives (i.e. UNITAID), the experience of national solidarity funds of different countries indicates that it is equally important to explore national and subnational sources of innovative funding. Therefore, TISIFF recommendations makes a special emphasis on country level platforms.

'TISIFF 2015 Recommendations' also provide a unified framework for 'Prioritization' of innovative financing vis-à-vis 2030 agenda. For each of the 17 Goals and 169 targets of 2030 agenda, the report identifies priority areas for advocacy and resource mobilization and potential sources and instruments that could be used for leveraging additional innovative financing solutions.

The Leading Group on Innovative Financing identifies 'TISIFF Recommendations' as a way forward, a common framework of action how to support sustainable development goals through more and diverse innovative financing.
