

FACES OF HUNGER & CONFLICT

How can food assistance support the creation of peace?

The Danish Foreign Policy Society and The United Nations World Food Programme invite you to a panel debate followed by a display of the photo exhibition Faces of Hunger and Conflict on 23 August from 09:00 – 11:00 at UN City, Copenhagen.

Conflicts are on the rise. Today, an estimated two billion people live in fragile and conflict-affected areas of the world. There are more crises, affecting more people, and lasting longer today than a decade ago. Armed conflict is the most significant obstacle for the achievement of Sustainable Development Goal 2, Zero Hunger. There is therefore a clear and urgent need to shift the way, actors like WFP operate in these settings to end needs and to support the UN Secretary-General's Sustaining Peace Agenda.

A knowledge partnership between WFP and Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI) was established to define WFP's actual and potential contributions to improving the prospects for peace. The event will present findings of the SIPRI research with the aim to increase awareness of the role of food security for building more peaceful societies. It will highlight Denmark's focus on translating the aspirations of the humanitarian-development-peace nexus into concrete action and cooperation on the ground.

PANELLISTS

Rasmus Prehn

Danish Minister for Development Cooperation

Ute Klamert

Assistant Executive Director, United Nations World Food Programme

Dan Smith

Director, Stockholm International Peace Research Institute

Charlotte Flindt Pedersen

Director, The Danish Foreign Policy Society

Moderator: Simi Jan

International correspondent, TV2

REGISTRATION

Kindly register your participation by 22 August 2018 through this link.

Doors open at 8:30 for coffee and mingle.

wfp.org/HungerConflict

