Dear Madame Speaker,
Dear Mr. Speaker,
Dear Member of Parliament,

The year of 2015 has marked a significant turning point to advance society through the adoption of Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). This political commitment for the global development is expected to mobilize efforts and concrete action that meets global challenges without leaving no one behind. To build better future for people and planet, advocacy for SDGs should start at national level. In this regards, UN has underlined the critical role of Parliament to divert national policies, programs, and resources for the implementation of SDGs.

Attended by 194 participants from 45 countries, 5 observers, and several international organizations.
