

Gender Dialogues: Bridging the Gender Divide

About the Event

Far from being the only cause of gender inequalities, language and other modes of communication can be key to progressively eliminating gender stereotypes across ethnicity, race, sexual orientation and other facets. Though a cultural shift might be a long way from a mere “tweet”, “Like” or YouTube video – this event will explore how communication platforms and the media can bridge the gender gap and unlock the doors of equality for all.

Speakers

Isabelle Augenstein, Head of the University of Copenhagen “Machine Learning Section” and author of the “Women are beautiful, men rational” study on how words are used to describe men and women in literature

Piv Bernth, Emmy and BAFTA award-winning producer of The Bridge, Nikolaj and Julie, The Killing, CEO and COO at Apple Tree Productions

Oda Faremo Lindholm, Historian, writer, journalist at Dagsavisen, specialist on how biases and the sexualisation of gender roles in media affects youth

Simi Jan, Author and award-winning international correspondent at TV2 Denmark, she has covered war zones and conflict areas primarily in the Middle East

Moussa Mchangama, Co-Founder - In futurum, he works with media and international brands within the fields of lifestyle, culture & sustainability

Peter Stenbæk, Creative Director at the leading Nordic media group Egmont, passionate about unconventional and community-aware advertising and branding.

Moderator

Mette Walsted Vestergaard, Professional Moderator and Co-founder of Kvindeøkonomien

Hosts

Grete Faremo, UN Under-Secretary-General and Executive Director at UNOPS

H.E. Aud Kolberg, Ambassador of Norway to Denmark

H.E. MaryEllen Miller, Ambassador of Australia to Denmark

Mette Hoffmann Meyer, CEO and Executive Producer at The Why Foundation

