| Note: There is a backlog in updating decisions on all areas in POLSAS (the police case management program). Data from previous years would not be reliable before 2 month after the end of a year. The data is analyzed based on information from POLSAS and processed in Qlikview, which is the management information system of the Prosecution Service. Reservation is made for typing errors. Data are dynamic and the number may change due to corrections or delayed updates of the data in POLSAS, new convictions etc. Indictments/prosecutions and convictions have been calculated based on the number of persons who have been prosecuted or convicted. The number of indictments in a single year does not correspond to the number of convictions in the same year. In consequence, there will be a periodic deviation of the data. The data were updated 11 May 2019. | | | | | | |

The errors were primarily the following: - The fact that there had not been made sufficient documentation in relation to the placement in observation cell and solitary confinement cell of the person involved (lack of notes about inspection and lack of reasons for the fixation). - The fact that it was not ensured that the person involved had the opportunity to improve the blood circulation in his legs during the long periods of fixation. - The fact that the person involved in several cases was taken out of the solitary confinement cell without a reason for this, including an assessment of the risk for new self-harming acts and attacks on the staff. Placement in solitary confinement cell with gradual removal of fixation and ultimately no fixation should have been considered. | report should be given to the Prison and Probation Service. It has been decided that reports on the use of observation cells and solitary confinement must be reviewed by a supervisor in the Zealand institutions belonging to the Prison and Probation Service, where they have solitary confinement, for the purpose of quality assurance. The staff at Storstrøm Fængsel has been given instructions about the rules covered in the suicide circular and the rules governing observation cells and solitary confinement (a large portion of the staff in Vridsløselille Prison has continued to serve in Storstrøm Prison following the closing of Vridsløselille Prison). Based on the case, the Prison and Probation Service has instituted measures for the purpose of generally increasing awareness of the risk and prevention of blood clots in inmates that have been restrained. The Prison and Probation Service has therefore on 31 August 2018 sent a letter to the area offices, wherein it is stated that the institutions henceforth must ensure that the restrained receives adequate fluid and is activated, so as to help prevent blood clots in connection with restraints in the future. It was also stated that blood clots from extended periods of immobilisation could be prevented with the use of medication. The letter came with an attached table, which – as documentation – must be filled out in connection with placing an inmate in solitary confinement and in addition to the module for solitary confinement in the client system. | |
