

World Food Programme

SAVING
LIVES
CHANGING
LIVES

CLIMATE EMERGENCY TURNING THE TIDE

Monday 10 October 15:00-16:30 CET
UN City, Marmorvej 51, 2100 Copenhagen
Please register your participation here

The climate crisis is no longer a glimpse into the future but the daily reality for communities around the world. 3.6 billion people live in areas that are highly vulnerable to climate change – accounting for over 40% of the global population. Climate extremes are one of the leading causes of food insecurity globally.

As world leaders are preparing for the largest annual global gathering on climate action, COP27, you are kindly invited to join us for this event that will gather representatives from government, UN organizations, NGOs and foundations to discuss the need for effective and scalable solutions to help food insecure people prepare for, respond to and recover from climate shocks and stresses.

The event coincides with the opening of UN World Food Programme's climate change exhibition Turning the Tide. Doors open at 14:00 for a tour of the exhibition and for networking opportunities.

TOMAS ANKER CHRISTENSEN

Climate Ambassador, Ministry of Foreign Affairs, Denmark

SUSANNE PEDERSEN

Director UNEP Copenhagen Climate Centre

MICHAEL DUNFORD

Director WFP Regional Bureau for East Africa

FLEMMING KONRADSEN

Senior Vice President, Social & Humanitarian, Novo Nordisk Foundation

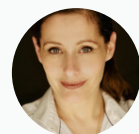

SEBASTIAAN SOETERS

Head of Climate Innovation, Care Denmark

SIBI LAWSON-MARRIOTT

Senior Regional Advisor Climate Adaptation, WFP Regional Bureau for East Africa

METTE WALSTED VESTERGAARD

Moderator