Dear Danish government

Dear foreign affairs committee in Danish parliament

Situation in Sudan

The Sudanese people overthrew the dictatorial regime of Omar Al-Bashir with one of the greatest revolutions in the history of humanity. This revolution has proven that even greatest tyrants and dictators can be defeated and uprooted out of their thrones with peaceful protests and marchers. It was great revolution from a great nation a nation that deserves a decent life.

Tyrants come in thousand colors and in different shapes. General Lieutenant Abdel Fattah Al-burhan is just another face of the former dictator Omar Al-bashir. They learned in the same school of dictatorship and the belong to the same ideology.

Al-Burhan betrayed the covenant he made, betrayed the constitutional document, and overthrew the civil led government in a full-fledged military coup. This military coup that Al-burhan planned and cooperated with the leader of the Janjaweed militia, Lieutenant-General Muhammad Hamdan Dagalo.

It is very unfortunate that general Burhan, the head of the Council, and his Allis, have undermined the agreement and constructional documents that they previously committed themselves to. Rather than guard an uphold the principles of peace and democracy, and help in leading out beloved country to peace and prosperity.

Many civilian ministers are still under arrested, furthermore all means of communications within the country and to the rest of the world have been deliberately disabled including mobile network and the country is living a total internet blackout.

Sudanese people still leave the bad memories of the military headquarter and its massacre. And we know how military can be violent and we still remember all the monstrous acts committed at the time by the same group against peaceful unarmed protestors.

In the 30s of October millions of Sudanese went out on the streets in unified peaceful unarmed protests declaring their absolute refusal of this military coup.

The political agreement between prime minister Hamduk and the military is another down point in Sudan.

we think that Al-burhan has no right to appoint a prime minister and we are disappointed to see Mr Hamduk accepting such situation.

The majority of Sudanese people do not accept this political agreement and the demonstrations are continuing in all the cities in Sudan.

The people of Sudan are demanding the military out of politics. They army has no place in the political governmental work.

Sudanese people are demanding a civilian led transitional government that has a full authority over all the country institutions including the army.

We are sending this note to the foreign affairs committee in Danish parliament ,requesting Denmark to stand beside the people of Sudan in confronting and refusing this criminal act, and demand the military bodies to immediate respond to the people's demands, cease all acts of violence against civilians and restore communication, mobile network and internet in the country.

We emphasize once again that the people of Sudan will not accept any negotiations, partnership, bargains, or solutions that include the inclusions of military in the political scene.

Short status after the meeting with the danish ministry of foreign affairs

Our greetings to the martyrs of the revolution.

Our greetings to the people of Sudan.

We know that the road has been long, 3 years of an ongoing revolution, some of us are exhausted, some are tired. But our dream is big, and our country deserves democracy and prosperity.

My fellow Sudanese we promise you that we will never stop our support for the peaceful revolution and our defense of the Sudanese people's right to a decent life.

Let us stand together as a one nation and show the world that unarmed peaceful revolution can make change.

We thank the international community, the European union and the danish ministry of foreign affairs for their support and sympathy. And we ask them to condemn the military coup in Sudan and continue their support of the people's right to democracy and justice.
